Cairo War Minister in Moscow

MOSCOW. — Egypt's War Minister flew in here for talks mainly about further Egyptian military requirements. General Mohamed Ahmed Sadek, who is also Egypt's Deputy Prime Minister, met Soviet Defence Minister Andrei Grechko.

IMPLICATIONS FOR EGYPT AIR DEFENCE U.S. 'wins' in Vietnam worries the Russians

By SAM LIPSKI Jerusalem Post Correspondent WASHINGTON. — The highly successful penetration of North Vietnam's air-defence systems by U.S. warplanes is arousing deep concern amongst Soviet military planners and has led to a major re-assessment in Moscow of the balance of power between Egypt and Israel.

missiles (Sams) depend so heavily. According to the American analysts the Soviets are primarily concerned about their own defence systems which, while more extensive, provide the model for the North Vietnamese facilities. The elaborate use of radar has been the central feature of the Soviet Union's air-defence pattern.

Germany and the Arabs

THE resumption of diplomatic relations between the Federal Republic of Germany and Egypt has not come as a surprise. Negotiations towards this end were taking place almost from the time ties were broken in 1965 following the establishment of diplomatic relations between Jerusalem and Bonn.

When Germany decided to establish diplomatic relations with Israel, it knew full well that the Arabs would retaliate. But Chancellor Erhardt refused to be intimidated. Germany did not suffer serious economic consequences, and its policy then was well received in Israel and abroad.

German leaders, from Chancellor Brandt down, have on various occasions assured Israel that restoration of ties with Egypt will not come at Israel's expense. There is no reason to doubt the sincerity of these assurances.

PILOT DIES IN CZECH HIJACK

WEIDEN, Germany. — A Czechoslovak pilot was shot dead yesterday when an airliner with 37 persons aboard was hijacked to West Germany, the Bavarian State Police reported.

Two other passengers were wounded by gunfire after the plane touched down at Latsch Airstrip, just inside West Germany. The two hijackers died on foot, but were later captured.

The twin-engine plane had been on a flight between Prague and the Bohemian spa town of Marienbad, near the West German frontier. It was the fourth air escape from Czechoslovakia to West Germany in the past two years and the second in just over six weeks.

On April 18 two miners seized an aircraft flying the same internal route in Czechoslovakia and forced it to land in Nuremberg after a shooting incident in which the co-pilot was wounded. Both men asked for political asylum in West Germany.

World pilots threaten 'strike' on hijacking

LONDON (UPI). — The International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations (IFAPA) said yesterday it would stage a 24-hour worldwide stoppage June 19, unless the U.N. took effective steps to combat hijacking.

The group said associations representing more than half the pilot members of the group have already agreed to the one-day stoppage.

SAIGON TROOPS HIT BACK

SAIGON. — U.S. bombers yesterday wrecked a rail tunnel in North Vietnam close to China's border, while in the south Government troops launched a tank attack into Communist-held Quang Tri province.

U.S. F-4 Phantoms, raiding within 32 kms. of China for the second time in two days, dropped electronically-controlled bombs which homed in on the 180-metre-long Luong Truong rail tunnel, 15 kms. southwest of Lang Son provincial capital.

Fees waived at Sapir request

JERUSALEM Post Staff TEL AVIV. — Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir said last night he had asked lawyers Ram Caspi and Erwin Shimron to give up their Witkon Commission fees.

He denied that the Government had a cynical attitude towards the public, emphasizing that ministers made two to three public appearances a week.

QUAKES HIT IRAN, CHILE

A "very severe" earthquake rocked parts of western Iran yesterday and a strong and prolonged earth tremor rattled several provinces of north-central Chile.

Home of 'fourth man' searched

TOKYO (AP). — Police authorities said yesterday that another search was made of the home of Osamu Maruoka, wanted by police on the basis of identification by terrorist Kozo Okamoto in Tel Aviv, that Maruoka was fourth activist linked with the Lod Airport massacre.

Spain condemns attack

The Spanish Foreign Ministry has sent a cable to the Foreign Ministry in Jerusalem condemning the terrorist murder attack at Lod Airport.

BEIRUT CLAIMS MORE ISRAEL INCURSIONS French warning denied here

Jerusalem Post Staff and Agencies Foreign Ministry officials in Jerusalem yesterday denied a report in newspapers abroad that President Pompidou had warned Israel after the Lod massacre not to take punitive action against Lebanon.

Beirut report said that Israeli gunboats entered Lebanese territorial waters and warplanes swept over southern sections of the country yesterday "as Israel continued a war of nerves against Lebanon."

Meanwhile airport security has been noticeably tightened in Egypt, and night-time manoeuvres have been going on near Cairo.

Tekoah hits PLO memo to U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI). — Israel Ambassador Yosef Tekoah yesterday described a memorandum sent by Libya to Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim as further proof of the responsibility of some Arab governments for the massacre at Lod Airport.

innocent and defenceless civilians. Its memorandum tries to justify the carnage at Lod carried out by agents of the terror organizations known as the Popular Front.

"AIR FRANCE CURBED SECURITY" Algeria to return hijack ransom

PARIS (Reuters). — Two French weekly magazines yesterday produced an internal Air France document ordering a curb on security measures for Tel Aviv-bound flights.

Algeria has agreed to return the $500,000 extorted by the hijackers of a Western Airlines airplane last weekend, a State Department spokesman said yesterday.

KISSINGER IN TOKYO

TOKYO (Reuters). — U.S. Presidential Adviser Henry Kissinger arrives here today on a private visit, but clearly seeking to smooth ruffled feelings and to re-establish ties with the Japanese government. Kissinger is coming at the invitation of the private U.S.-Japan Economic Council, though during his three-day visit he is due to talk with government, political and business leaders.

Baader 'offered services to Palestinians'

BEIRUT (AFP). — Andreas Baader, the German anarchist captured in Frankfurt last Thursday, visited Lebanon earlier this year and offered his services to the terrorists, the newspaper "An-Nahar" claimed here yesterday.

According to the paper, Baader proposed that his group carry out a series of actions against Israel, including "attacks against vital Israeli installations." But the Palestinian leaders had turned down the offer "because it contained weak points," and also because some of them suspected his main purpose was to learn the methods of the sabotage organizations.

Differences in Hanoi leadership reported

By JAMES PRINGLE
PEKING (Reuters). — American bombing and mining may be hurting North Vietnam more than its leadership cares to admit, according to diplomats, technicians and others arriving here from Hanoi. Foreign diplomats in Peking are examining growing signs that this is leading to a possible divergence of views within North Vietnam's ruling Politburo about the conduct of the Indo-China war. The people arriving here from Hanoi, mainly representatives of Communist countries, say there are indications that some members of the 11-member Politburo, such as Workers' Party First Secretary Le Duan, favour a possible rethinking of North Vietnam's immediate goals. The party's specialist in ideology, Mr. Truong Chinh, and Hanoi's hard-line Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh, are said to oppose any scaling down of war aims in favour of developing the ravaged country's bomb-blasted industry and labour-short agriculture as suggested by some. The apparent efficacy of the U.S. mining of North Vietnamese ports to prevent the entry of large foreign vessels and the changed international situation regarding Hanoi's close allies, such as China and the Soviet Union, has prompted Le Duan's reported willingness to reconsider the war aims, the sources say. Premier Pham Van Dong is said to have taken a neutral position on the issues, which represent a dialogue rather than a split in the leadership. One vital factor as seen by diplomats in the Chinese capital has been the apparent success of American electronically-guided bombs, known as "smart bombs," in knocking out vital bridges and road and rail links.

Some diplomats here, echoing reports from their counterparts in Hanoi, say they fear President Nixon plans a "total annihilation" in North Vietnam. One visitor arriving from Hanoi this week said the evacuation of foreign diplomats and the government to mountains west of the North Vietnamese capital was imminent. At the same time, observers here are reluctant to predict even a semi-permanent setback to Hanoi's determination to score strategic gains in South Vietnam in view of the North's past ability to overcome U.S. escalation. The U.S. "ring of steel and high explosive" around North Vietnam is hampering aid efforts from China and the Soviet Union. This is regarded here as having an eventual effect on Hanoi's ability to sustain its offensive in the South, now apparently slowed down.

VIETNAM Eban: Jarring was one-sided

Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, seized more territory in coastal Binh Dinh province in a threat to two major towns there, and seized the market place in Trang Bang, 41 kms. north-west of Saigon, where heavy fighting continued yesterday.

The fight in Trang Bang produced a bombing mistake. A South Vietnamese A-1 Skyraider accidentally dropped a burning napalm on civilian refugees fleeing the fighting, burning to death at least four children and a woman. Several South Vietnamese soldiers also were killed.

In Paris, North Vietnam yesterday accused the U.S. of systematic destruction of its vital food dyke system and said the civilian population may face a grave threat if the bombing goes on into next month's rainy season. Nguyen Thanh Le, Hanoi peace delegation spokesman, told a news conference that U.S. warplanes "on President Nixon's orders" have unleashed attacks on the complex system of dykes holding back and controlling floodwaters in the country's populous areas. EBAN SEES HOME

LONDON (INA). — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban arrived in London yesterday from Stockholm, where he led the Israel delegation to the U.N. Conference on the Human Environment during the first phase. The Foreign Minister is here on a private visit and will stay a few days. He met with the Foreign Secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home last night. Also present was Israeli Ambassador Michael Comay. It is understood that the main item on the agenda was the question of adjustments in Anglo-Israeli financial and trade relations arising out of British entry into the Common Market, which takes effect from January 1 next year. Mr. Eban will see Mr. Geoffrey Rippon, Minister for Common Market Affairs, this morning.

NOISE DRIVING MAN MAD

The hearing of people is becoming severely affected, it is said. A recent survey in Sweden showed that 79.5 per cent of all persons between 15 and 20 applying for jobs had hearing troubles caused by noise. This is double the figure in 1956. The report said that doctors now attribute one in every three cases of neurosis to noise and four of every five headaches. "It has now become urgent to set permissible limits," the report said.

Beirut offer on Iraq pipeline

By MAYMON ABEDAL Arab Affairs Monitor
The Lebanese Prime Minister, Mr. Saeb Salam, revealed yesterday that his government has offered Iraq to grant her a concession for the construction of a new pipeline between Kirkuk in North Iraq to Tripoli, the Lebanese oil terminal on the East Mediterranean. The Premier was speaking before the new Lebanese Parliament.

The Iraq Government has made no statement on this offer so far. The Lebanese offer means that Lebanon will not allow Iraq to use the Iraq Petroleum Company's installations inside Lebanon, thus adding new difficulties to Iraq after the nationalization of the I.P.C.'s operations and assets last week.

'Too sick for murder trial'

LANCASTER, England (Reuters). — Jordanian eye doctor Ahmad Alami, son of the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, was yesterday declared too mentally ill to plead before a murder trial. The court ordered him detained in hospital. The 32-year-old Alami was charged with murdering three children at a hospital in nearby Blackpool last February. He was also accused of attempting to murder another child and two nurses. A doctor told the court that Alami was not capable of comprehending the proceedings, incapable of challenging any juror or of understanding the evidence. The doctor said Alami had been suffering from paranoid schizophrenia for some time. During the 15-minute hearing, Alami did not speak.

CAIRO AND BONN RESTORE TIES

Egypt and West Germany yesterday restored diplomatic relations after a seven-year break. An official statement said the two governments were convinced the step was an important move towards strengthening ties between the two peoples. Egypt was one of 10 Arab countries to sever diplomatic ties with West Germany in May 1965 after Bonn recognized Israel. In Cairo, Dr. Mohammed Zayyat, Minister of State for Information and acting Foreign Minister, told correspondents: "We are looking forward to the best of relations between us and all the German people." He said that relations would be on the basis of full embassy status and he hoped the new ambassadors would be named within a month. The move will mean that Egypt will now have two German ambassadors in Cairo. East Germany established relations with Egypt in 1969. The West Germans, although operating under the Italian flag, have been far from inactive in Egypt in the past seven years. They have continued an extensive aid programme which includes the building of three bridges across the Nile, electrification and irrigation projects. West Germany, after the Soviet Union, is also the biggest trader with Egypt. Egypt is the sixth Arab country after the original 10 which broke off ties in 1965. Lebanon, Jordan, Yemen, Algeria and the Sudan had already resumed diplomatic ties. (Reuters)

The Post's Diplomatic Correspondent writes: The Foreign Ministry reacted calmly yesterday to the news of the reconstituted diplomatic relations between Bonn and Cairo. The move had been in the offing for some months, and the Germans had repeatedly reassured Israel that it was not to be made at the expense of the warm relations between Jerusalem and Bonn, and would not prejudice them. Political observers in Jerusalem believed the new Cairo-Bonn accord might turn out for the good of Israel — with German influence acting as a brake on Egyptian political and military impetuosity. As long as the present generation of German politicians — Chancellor Willy Brandt, or Opposition Leader Helmut Schmidt, or Bavarian Christian-Socialist leader Franz-Josef Strauss — are at the helm in Bonn, Israel-German relations would remain essentially stable, these observers felt.

MINERS STRIKE AT ILL-FATED COLLIERY

WANKIE, Rhodesia (Reuters). — Several hundred African workers went on strike yesterday at the Wankie coal mine where there was a blast on Tuesday were almost certainly dead. The African miners were refusing to go underground, and a mine official said it was decided to close the mine. They did not know if it would open today. Earlier, the chairman of the colliery company, Sir Keith Acutt, said the extent of the damage caused by the blast and the poisonous air in the mine "leaves no chance for hope." Rescue workers at the Number Two colliery, scene of Tuesday's disaster, have screened off the main entrance to the mine in preparation for bringing bodies to the surface. Extra police have been brought to the pithead to control a crowd of several thousand people, mainly Africans, waiting for news of the trapped miners.

U.S.-British treaty signed on hijackers

LONDON. — The U.S. and Britain yesterday agreed to hand over airplane hijackers and drug traffickers for trial in each other's courts. But they agreed the death penalty must not be carried out. The extradition treaty signed at the British Foreign Office requires ratification by Congress and the British Parliament. It provides that extradition will be possible for many more offences than an earlier treaty, including specifically hijacking of aircraft and drug trafficking. But it provided that extradition may be refused unless assurances are given that the death penalty will not be carried out unless the offence is punishable by death in both countries. The Airline Pilots' Association yesterday in Washington called for the immediate cessation of liquidated natural gas imports from Algeria, until the Algerian Government returns two American airline hijackers, who had fled there after collecting $500,000 ransom from Western Airlines. In Beirut, the Lebanese Government has drawn up legislation to prosecute aircraft hijackers. Foreign Ministry spokesman said last night. Details of proposed penalties were not disclosed, and it was not immediately clear whether the draft bill to go before Parliament was aimed at hijackers landing on Lebanese soil, hijackers originating from Lebanon or both. In Cairo, Egypt yesterday rejected an unfounded and unacceptable U.S. protest note against a statement by Egyptian Prime Minister Adnan Sidki on last week's terrorist attack at Lod Airport. Dr. Mohammed Zayyat, Minister of State for Information, told a press conference that the U.S. protest had claimed that "Dr. Sidki praised the airport attack." But a study of the Prime Minister's remarks showed "no endorsement of the incident," the Information Minister said. At the United Nations, the Palestine Liberation Organization said in a memorandum that no Arab state could be held accountable for the Lod massacre. The responsibility must rest with "Israel's denial of the right of national self-determination of the Palestinian people," the memorandum said. It was circulated as a Security Council document at the request of Foreign Ambassador Mansur R. Kikihi, Libya's Permanent Representative. (UPI, Reuters) is the fact that their comparatively vulnerable B-52 bombers have flown missions over North Vietnam without loss of a single plane. The success of a 17-plane formation of B-52 bombers in penetrating the heavy defence system around Halphong Harbour on April 16 and the fact that they hit the oil storage areas from heights of 30,000 feet is considered especially relevant to Soviet concern.

U.S. air 'wins'

According to "Aviation Week and Space Technology" the raid on Halphong included an advance force by fighter aircraft — understood to have included F-4 Phantoms — which blinded the North Vietnamese radar and missile guidance systems to the B-52 raid. A heavy barrage of B-52s was fired, but none hit any of the B-52s and the radar-jammed task was largely ineffective. In a second strike at Halphong, B-52s and two major aircraft sites 242 Sam-2 missiles were fired and only two U.S. fighter-bombers were lost. Much of the equipment used by the American planes is understood to be available to, and in use by, the Israeli Air Force, according to American officials. The anti-radiation missiles, such as the Shrike, which are designed to home-in on the emissions from an enemy radar set, and other equipment, has reportedly been purchased for use with the F-4 Phantom and other aircraft in the Israeli inventory.

Soviet poet seeks visa

MOSCOW. — Yosef Brodsky, a promising young Soviet poet once banished to the Arctic Circle for "social parasitism," has left the Soviet Union and applied in Vienna for a visa to the U.S. Western sources said yesterday. Mr. Brodsky, a 34-year-old Leningrad Jew whose works had appeared in anthologies of the former capital's best poetry, applied for the visa in Vienna either Tuesday or Wednesday. Sources said that shortly before President Nixon's arrival on May 22, Mr. Brodsky, who had been trying to emigrate because he found it impossible to publish his works here, was summoned by the secret police and offered an opportunity to obtain an exit visa to Israel. However, the sources said they were certain that the U.S. was his destination. (UPI, INA)

Dispute over Jerusalem as press meet ends

MUNICH (UPI). — The International Press Institute ended its 21st general assembly yesterday with controversy still simmering over the choice of Jerusalem for next year's meeting. It was doubted that members from such Moslem or Arab countries as Lebanon, Pakistan or Tunisia would attend the meeting. Delegates warned that the holding of a meeting in a city closed to some members could only weaken the institute, which unites journalists in 62 non-Communist countries. "Jerusalem became the only candidate for the meeting next year when Buenos Aires withdrew at the last moment. Many delegates said they had doubts about "the political and security wisdom" of meeting in Jerusalem, but hesitated to vote against it because no alternative was available. Arab delegates, who led the fight against Jerusalem, said their governments would not let them go. Israel promised that the Arabs would be given visas.

Nazi doctor freed; 'unaware of crime'

BONN (INA). — A former Nazi doctor, Kurt Born, was acquitted by a Frankfurt jury on Tuesday because he "was unaware of the injustice of his actions." Born, 62, had been accused of the murder of 1,000 insane people during the Nazi period. Although it was proved beyond any doubt during the five-month trial that Born participated in the mass murder, the State Prosecutor told the court he had not committed the crimes "out of low motives." Born sent hundreds of people to the gas chambers at the Sonnenstein concentration camp. Born could not be sentenced for manslaughter because all crimes except murder, committed during the Nazi period, are subject to the statute of limitations.

Barnard threat over S.A. student protest

CAPE TOWN (Reuters). — Heart transplant pioneer Christian Barnard has stepped into South Africa's student row, threatening to quit if his doctor brother is sacked for addressing a protest meeting here. The 56-year-old surgeon issued his threat on Wednesday night after police with dogs and rubber truncheons smashed student meetings in Cape Town. Johannesburg and Pietermaritzburg opposing the Government's month-long ban on all outdoor demonstrations. Professor Barnard warned that if his brother, Marius, a fellow surgeon on the Groote Schuur Hospital transplant team, was dismissed by the hospital authorities, he would "close up shop and leave with him." Dr. Marius Barnard has been told he could be charged with misconduct for speaking at a City Hall meeting on Tuesday night. He urged students to aim at ousting the Government by taking the advice of Prime Minister John Vorster and working through the ballot box. Professor Barnard said he would also like to have been one of the speakers at the meeting and declared: "I would possibly have expressed myself in even stronger terms than Marius did." Meanwhile the student conflict took on a new aspect yesterday after police broke up meetings inside university campuses here and in Johannesburg. In Johannesburg police on Wednesday used rubber batons to hit students across the back and shoulders as they fled, while in Cape Town police with dogs forced students off the steps of a university hall. A few arrests were reported in both incidents. Both groups of students, backed by some university officials, claimed the police had wrongly impounded on "private property" and said they planned to hold more meetings yesterday. But the police seemed determined to impose the ban on the meetings — that any meeting not held in four walls was illegal.

Anti-busing bill passed by House

WASHINGTON (AP). — The U.S. House of Representatives yesterday gave final approval to a massive education bill containing the strongest anti-busing provision ever passed by a U.S. Congress. The bill, which now goes to President Nixon, would prevent for the next 16 months the carrying out of any court desegregation order until the measure has been exhausted. The measure was passed 216 to 189 on a roll call vote.

MUSKIE MAY BACK McGOVERN BID

NEW YORK (AP). — Senator George McGovern's quickening race for the Democratic presidential nomination was boosted yesterday by the growing possibility that fallen front-runner Senator Edward Muskie would release his delegates and lend his support. Sources indicated Wednesday that the Maine senator would abandon entirely his campaign and support McGovern. NBC and the "New York Times" reported that the word could come when Mr. Muskie addresses the National Press Club in Washington on Friday. Senator Humphrey at a National Governor's Conference in Dallas said yesterday he would be willing to share the Democratic ticket with Alabama Gov. George Wallace to defeat President Nixon in November.

'RUSSIAN PEACE DRIVE TURNING TOWARDS CHINA'

By K. C. THALER
BEELGRADE (UPI)

FAST European sources said yesterday that Russia has extended its sweeping peace offensive to China with signs of response from Peking.

This development follows Moscow's current effort to normalize relations on the widest possible basis from which has been greatly encouraged by the successful summit agreements reached between Khrushchev and President Nixon in Moscow last month. There is reason to believe the sources said, that China has shown some interest although it has remained noncommittal at this stage of the peace probe.

The Soviets are anxious to improve their severely strained relations with the Chinese Government, to complement their effort in Europe where after the summit they see promising developments at the projected European security conference for the consolidation of their position in Europe.

They termed as significant Peking's latest decision to appoint a new negotiator for the talks with the Soviets on their festering border dispute. The Soviet Ambassador in Peking, Vadim Tolstikov, also has returned to the Chinese capital from consultations in Moscow, reportedly with instructions for peace soundings. At the same time he is to try to coordinate their Vietnam policy for anticipated developments.

'Splitting tactics'

Earlier this year Soviet Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev appealed to China for better relations while at the same time castigating the Peking regime for its so-called "splitting tactics" in the Communist world. The sources said Moscow, which deeply suspected China of having collaborated with Nixon against Russia after their Peking summit in February, apparently feels less apprehensive after the Moscow summit.

The Kremlin was said to have embarked now on a peace offensive toward China in the hope-the two one-time allied Communist giants may find an agreed way to "co-exist." China has been comparatively less vitriolic in its attacks on Moscow recently.

There is no question of any reconciliation between them in the ideological field on which differences were said to remain as deep and unbridgeable as ever. But in their state and trade relations there could be a chance for improvement. At any rate they seem to be prepared to give it a try, the East European said.

Feelings of various sorts and through a variety of channels have reportedly been put out lately. They did not foresee swift or startling results, but this might be the first new attempt in a long time to look at their quarrel again through diplomatic eyes.

Border talks

In the three years since the Sino-Soviet border talks began no progress whatever was made. Peking has not budged from its stand of large-scale border changes in its favor. The dispute concerns thousands of square miles of Soviet territory in the Far East. Russia scoffed at these suggestions and has consistently rejected them.

There have been reported guarded approaches by Moscow to Peking for a coordinated Vietnam strategy in the light of latest crisis developments in South East Asia. The Soviets also asked China to allow large scale arms shipments through their territory to North Vietnam, to bypass the American blockade of North Vietnamese ports. Peking's response has reportedly been cool. This issue, it was said, would be high on the agenda of any possible new peace feelers between them.

Russia has sought to cash in past months on Hanoi's anger with Peking over its peace with the U.S. But Russia's tacit acceptance of the American blockade has shaken Hanoi's confidence in Moscow's dependability as well in the past few weeks.

These developments together with Moscow's overall peace offensive were held to have prompted a new approach for a possible truce in their more than 15-year-old conflict. The sources said the new attempt may come to naught, but the Russians seem anxious to try while Peking at least has not slammed the door outright.

Police hold German 'Red Army' woman

HAMBURG — The West German police Wednesday arrested one of the leaders of the Baader-Meinhoff leftist gang. She is Gudrun Essling, a 31-year-old student.

The Baader-Meinhoff gang calls itself the "Red Army," and a number of terror acts, and robberies have been attributed to it in the last two years. The group cooperates with the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Held with grenade on way to Agnew meeting

HARTFORD, Connecticut (Reuter). — A Vietnam ex-serviceman with a hand grenade was arrested on his way to the U.S. Coast Guard Academy at New London, where Vice-President Spiro Agnew was addressing a graduate class, Wednesday, State Police said.

A police spokesman said Jerome Jacobson, 26, was carrying a military-type plastic hand grenade with a full explosive charge in his car. He was said to be a member of the organization known as Vietnam Veterans Against the War.

Jacobson offered no resistance when police arrested him in nearby Mansfield as he was driving to the Academy, the spokesman said. "Constitution Police found out last night that he would go to the ceremony with a hand grenade — but I won't say it was a tip-off."

Jacobson entered no plea when he was arraigned on a charge of carrying a dangerous weapon in his car. He was held in lieu of $30,000 bail and is due to appear at a court hearing on June 9.

Divided Cyprus flourishes in the sun

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

NICOSIA (Ons). — CYPRUS today flourishes in conditions that would destroy most nations. It is divided in a manner that traditionally precedes massacre and yet it flourishes and there is no loss of business confidence.

It is developing a tourism that is carefully sold to the British taste and which promises to outstrip the foreign earnings as a source of income. Levantine poverty has been abolished, the countryside has a peasant prosperity; there is full employment and per capita income of some $350 a year which puts it second only to Israel in the area.

It is not at the mercy of foreign capital. It has a balance of payments surplus. Above all it has an air of success and of earned ease in the sun, and yet there are still the "no-go" areas.

More than 20 per cent of Cyprus consists of Turkish enclaves sealed and guarded into which no Greek Cypriots will venture. The Turkish Cypriots, however, work and trade with the Greek areas. This bifurcated exclusivity is the result of one of the longest-standing international conflicts in history, and yet a peace-bound visitor may not notice it, will not be affected by it, will be delighted only by the competitive courtesy of Greek and Turkish police and forces.

Tension

The tension surfaced in a mysterious manner when the President bought arms from Czechoslovakia in June 1971. He got an astonishing 10,000 cases of arms and ammunition. He ordered them ostensibly for the National Guard and police force to protect against Turkish encroachments. Officially it is said that the Greeks were informed in advance. In fact they passionately objected when the arms arrived, either because they were not informed or because they thought to topple the Archbishop. They made three angry demands on him. He must give the arms to the U.N. They are now in an arms compound under a collective guardianship that satisfies virtually everyone. He got rid of his ally Foreign Minister and will soon reshuffle his Council of Ministers to satisfy the second demand, and for the last he again refused to defer all final decisions to Athens.

But another attack has proved more painful. Since 1963 the Orthodox Church has been discussing whether canon law permits a priest to rule a country (apparently he can if the life of the nation is at risk). The Church in Cyprus is overseen by a holy synod that meets in Lent and, as well as Makarios, its voters consist of the Metropolitans of Paphos, Kyrenia and Kition. At the last meeting the synod voted against Makarios, three to one; but they cannot depose a prelate who is head of an autocephalous church and has from the Byzantine Emperor Zeno in the fifth century the right to wear the purple, carry a sceptre and sign in red ink. He is a patriarch in all but name.

Bravura

Dominating it all is still the President, Archbishop Makarios, the senior Head of Government in the Commonwealth and arguably the most brilliant and single-minded practitioner within that organization. Without battalions he faces his opponents, both domestic and foreign, and outfaces them with an almost contemptuous ease. It is a bravura one-man performance and it has earned him the unrelenting enmity of the Colonels in Athens.

Yet the Colonels and the Archbishop are in agreement on the fact that enosis (union of Cyprus and Greece) in the face of the certain Turkish reaction is now and for the foreseeable future inopportune. It remains for both like the beatific vision — something devoutly to be wished for, but not officiously to be hurried up. But, despite this un-standing, the Colonels would have the President down because his most reliable support comes from the Communists, because he has chosen to make close contacts with the Third World and because he will not accept even in the name of Hellenism that the future of Cyprus be decided in Athens rather than in Nicosia.

Devout

The three Metropolitans are known to be devout and old-fashioned Hellenists and he of Kition is very close to Grivas the supreme enosis. But they are not sophisticated. They are not physically well, and they are not immune from human resentment. It is widely believed that they are preparing formal charges against the Archbishop. These could be presented to a greater synod which representatives of the Patriarchates of Constantinople, Antioch, Alexandria and Jerusalem would attend. Such a gathering could, and likely would, depose him, but it would not be easy to summon such a synod.

The faint possibility of such a meeting might influence the Archbishop's decision on standing again for the Presidency next year, though it is hard to see any other man surviving in the long black shadow of such a prelate.

SYRIAN DEFENCE LINES BROKEN

Five years ago today — was the fifth day of the Six Day War. Here are excerpts from our following issue, Sunday, June 11, 1967.

The Syrian frontier had broken out at dawn on Friday after the Syrians, in complete disregard of the cease-fire they had agreed to the preceding day, stepped up their artillery fire.

The Defense Ministry spokesman, Mr. Moshe Pearlman, said that it is believed there are 600 to 700 Egyptian tanks still in Sinai, of which 200 may still be serviceable.

Thousands of Egyptian soldiers continued to straggle back on foot to Egypt yesterday, the Defense Forces making no attempt to stop them. Six Egyptian generals have been captured.

Announcement of a cease-fire agreement enforced at 6.30 p.m. yesterday between Israel and Syria was made in Tel Aviv by the Army spokesman and in New York at the U.N. Security Council. The spokesman said Israel will honour the agreement so long as it is observed by the Syrians.

The Soviet Union yesterday (Saturday, June 10) announced its intention to break off relations with Israel, accusing this country of failing to observe the cease-fire on the Syrian border. A threat of sanctions was also made, should military action not be halted. Israel has expressed the hope that relations will be restored when the Soviet Union shows more appreciation of Israel's problems.

The Soviet Ambassador, Mr. Dmitri Cauvalkhin, (Saturday afternoon) called on Foreign Minister Abba Eban and presented a note from his Government announcing its decision.

CAIRO — Wild outbursts of jubilation in the National Assembly and the streets of Cairo greeted President Gamal Abdul Nasser's withdrawal of his resignation yesterday morning, less than a day after he announced it. In an atmosphere changed from gloom to wild jubilation, groups ran through the streets shouting "Nasser, Nasser."

VIENNA — The Central Committee of the Rumanian Communist Party yesterday called for Israel-Arab negotiations to ensure and consolidate peace in the Middle East.

The European Common Market's Permanent Commission has recommended Israel's acceptance into the Market as an associate member.

(The report) quoting unofficial sources in Brussels, added that the French delegate was the only one to oppose the recommendation.

The flag of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem was hoisted on the roof of the Jewish National and University Library on Mt. Scopus at 10 a.m. Friday to the strains of "Hatikva."

LOD AIRPORT — Foreign Minister Abba Eban stated here on his return Friday evening from the U.N. that the emphasis in Israel's foreign policy now "must be on viable agreements directly arrived at between the governments of our region in order to establish a peaceful and stable order."

The West Bank command, under Aluf Haim Herzog is working round the clock to restore order, services and normal activity in the large segment of Central Palestine now under Israel occupation... Despite heavy damage to the network, the Old City will be fully illuminated by this evening... Israel authorities appealed to the population of the Old City... asking butchers and grocers to open their shops to let municipal sanitary workers collect rotten foodstuffs and meat...

The Jerusalem Post has made arrangements for selling the paper as from today in Bethlehem and Old Jerusalem.

The blackout ended in Jerusalem last night... a partial brownout will remain, more to save power...

CAIRO — Suez Canal Authority head... said yesterday the Canal will remain closed for "some time" due to Israeli attacks which sank vessels and barges in the waterway. He said "the removal of these obstacles will take some time."

The Israel Navy sank at least one Egyptian missile-carrying craft, is "assumed" to have sunk two enemy submarines, and inflicted other damage... between last Monday and Thursday, according to the Army spokesman.

HAIFA — Egypt's declaration of war and its call to the Arab states to annihilate Israel notified the 1949 armistice agreements, Labour Minister Yigal Alon told an overflow audience at the Municipal Theatre on Friday night.

According to Ha'aretz, Jews may approach the Western Wall only via the Dung Gate or the Jaffa Gate. They are not permitted to cross the Temple Mount, the Chief Rabbinate Council ruled on Friday.

Frazier to fight Ali in autumn

THE man who holds the contracts says he expects heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier to defend his title against Muhammad Ali at the Forum in Los Angeles this autumn.

"I think we should have the bout in September or October," said Jack Kent Cooke. "And it will be at the Forum."

That sports emporium was built by Cooke and owned by Cooke, and Cooke was the man who guaranteed the multi-million dollar purses for Frazier and Ali when they met last year in New York.

Neither fighter seems to want the return bout in California. Ali favours the Astrodome in Houston and Frazier, all in favour of Los Angeles last fall, now says his manager, Yancey Durham, wants a different site.

Durham was in Spain and wasn't due back in the United States until June 10.

Although Ali has been clamoring for a return bout against Frazier, the champion declared Muhammad didn't want to meet him again.

"He's got no punch," said Joe. "He can't hurt anybody. That's why everybody wants to fight him and not me."

All is scheduled to meet Jerry Quarry at Las Vegas, Nevada, on June 27.

BASEBALL

THE Philadelphia Phillies, losers of their nine previous games and 19 of their last 20, defeated the Houston Astros 3-1 Wednesday night as Greg Luzinski drove in two runs with a double in a three-run sixth inning.

In the first game of a West Coast doubleheader, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the San Diego Padres 12-5 as Willie Stargell blasted his 12th and 13th home runs and drove in five runs.

The Pirates made it a sweep with a 1-0 victory in the second game — but it took them 18 innings to do it. They got the winning run when Mike Corkins issued a bases-loaded walk to Gene Alley.

In Los Angeles, Burt Hooton scattered 13 hits, all singles, Carmen Fanzone cracked a three-run home run and Billy Williams added a two-run shot as the Chicago Cubs downed the Dodgers 5-1.

In other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the San Francisco Giants 6-0, Cincinnati's Reds beat the New York Mets 6-3 and the Montreal Expos defeated Atlanta's Braves 5-2.

In the American League, it was the Baltimore Orioles 11, Minnesota Twins 2; Oakland Athletics 10, Cleveland Indians 4; Chicago White Sox 2, Boston Red Sox 1; Kansas City Royals 5, Milwaukee Brewers 4; New York Yankees 7, Texas Rangers 5; and California Angels 5, Detroit Tigers 1.

PRIVATE POLICE ALARM FRENCH

PARIS — FRENCH trade unions and employers' organizations are alarmed by the increasing use of private militia-type police forces by many firms in order to enforce discipline and wrinkle out agitators on the factory floor.

Big companies, including the Peugeot car company and the state-owned Berliet truck firm, have been hiring men as assembly line workers or foremen, but paying them an extra $100-$125 a week in order to spy on or intimidate their workmates.

Understandably, employers are reluctant to discuss the use of these strong-arm squads, many of whom carry out commando operations against left-wing shop stewards in order to deter them from calling wildcat strikes. But the organizations which provide the recruits are more outspoken about their activities.

The Agence Centrale de Services (A.C.S.S.), proclaims in its publicity brochures that it can provide not only factory guards — "reliable men" — but also "temporary staff," including retired policemen who are qualified to conduct investigations of all types for industry.

A.C.S.S. has 15,000 "temps" on its books. Business is thriving so well that it recently opened branches in six provincial cities. One of its competitors, which ambitiously calls itself "Video," is headed by a retired senior police officer. Video's advertisements announce: "We are an international industrial and private information. We handle enquiries of all types, including thorough investigations of executives, foremen, office staff, and factory personnel."

Life histories

A.C.S.S. says it has compiled the life-histories of over 50,000 executives and workers thanks to the recent purchase of an expensive computer. Any firm which wishes to verify the curriculum vitae of a candidate for a job can consult this vast file — for a handsome fee.

"According to the French weekly 'Le Nouvel Observateur', the Compagnie Europeenne d'Organisation (C.E.O.) recently provided the Peugeot automobile factory at Sochaux, near the Swiss border, with 300 "temps." Their activities were disclosed by some of the recruits who were so disgusted with their assignment that they resigned.

The C.E.O. hired part of its Peugeot contingent by making alluring offers to convicts who had been released after serving jail terms for petty crimes. They were then signed on for assembly line jobs by Peugeot and split up into groups of seven men scattered throughout the factory, says "Le Nouvel Observateur."

Their instructions included photographing "troublemakers," listening to their conversation during meal breaks and in the washrooms and noting which newspapers they read. The C.E.O. squads reported on their findings to an executive of the firm at rendez-vous in a local cafe.

They were also assigned to beat up groups of young Maoists who were suspected of engineering strikes and occasionally to start strikes of their own. These stoppages enabled the management to summarily dismiss workers who joined in.

C.E.O. did its job so well that after three months Peugeot reported there was no more trouble at the works and C.E.O.'s services were therefore no longer required, "Le Nouvel Observateur" adds.

U.S. detects Soviet A-test

WASHINGTON (AP). — The United States Atomic Energy Commission reported Wednesday the recording of seismic signals that presumably came from a Soviet underground nuclear explosion.

The Commission said the signals originated at about 3.30 a.m. yesterday Israel time at the Semipalatinsk nuclear testing area in Soviet Siberia.

conscious of the danger from these militia-type organizations, but say they are powerless to stop them, even when spies are introduced into union headquarters.

M. Pierre Felce, Secretary-General of the Transport Federation of the Socialist-oriented Force Ouvriere union told me: "We know that there are informers in the factories just as there are informers among gangs of criminals. But it is hardly worth while trying to detect them. For as soon as one spy is unmasked he is replaced by another."

Spies and informers

A senior official of the Communist-dominated Confederation Generale du Travail (C.G.T.) said: "The employers do not stop at hiring specialized spies and informers. In the big automobile firms they recruit them among foreign workers — Algerians, Spaniards and Portuguese — whom they threaten to send back to their own countries unless they cooperate. Since many of these men are political refugees, they usually agree."

The Conseil National du Patronat Francais, the big employers' federation, is uneasy about this situation. But, since it is hostile to any public washing of French industry's dirty linen, the Conseil refuses to denounce the methods employed by Peugeot and other firms.

However, one hundred firms, including the big "L'Oréal" perfume group, and the "Evia" mineral water combine, have recently formed a ginger group called "Enterprise and Progress" which says in a carefully drafted report that "bad bosses" are the grave-diggers of French capitalism.

"Enterprise and Progress" claims that an opinion poll among French workers shows that 70 per cent consider their employers are poor managers and only 17 per cent consider them good. The report adds: "In a free country no government could tolerate being discredited like this for long. No social authority can survive on such fragile foundations."

LOD AIRPORT MASSACRE

NOT AN ISOLATED ACT

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: The spontaneous reaction of the Japanese Government to the massacre at Lod has been noted with satisfaction. It should be stressed, however, that the foul deed perpetrated at Lod Airport is not a separate and isolated act of war — the Arab war against Israel. Many deeds in the past years, carried out by the Arabs against Israel and many distasteful actions against the Jewish people have been taken. By no means the least of these nefarious activities is the economic boycott which the Arab countries have imposed in an organized manner and on a world-wide scale. The governments concerned usually proffer some kind of explanation, citing non-interference with commercial relations between their country and Israel. Yet where any Arab anti-Israel activity is permitted in a given country, it is virtually impossible to stop a seemingly innocuous activity from developing into violent action. This phenomenon can be observed in many countries, not excluding Japan. Japanese industry as a whole has for many years submitted to the imposition of the Arab boycott. The boycott is an inseparable link in the chain of Arab anti-Israel activities which, in their "logical" development, leads to murderous actions.

Would it not be a timely action on the part of the Japanese Government to denounce and forbid any form of Arab boycott against Israel in Japan?

I. VILBERTORUK
Tel Aviv, June 4.

Security questions

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Having read the eye-witness account of the Lod massacre by the 22-year-old security guard, as reported by Yitzhak Okeid (June 1), I feel tempted to ask a few questions.

1. Why does a security guard give his partner a break when on duty?
2. Why did he not, while sitting or standing on the bridge, which is obviously a vantage point, since he could overlook the large customs hall, shoot at the Japanese whom he saw shooting wildly, why?
3. Did he not have a gun? If not, then why?

His behaviour contrasts drastically with Mordechai Rahamim's during the attack on the El Al plane in Zurich.

After having blamed everybody else, I think there is still room for some more blame and this time right here last but not least.

N. PARNES
Tel Aviv, June 2.

WORLD'S DOUBLE STANDARD

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: The horror and outrage perpetrated this week at Lod Airport by three terrorists is only surpassed by shock at the euphoric reception with which the Arab mass media received the news. While it is distressing that persons exist who are capable of carrying out such a deed, it is alarming to hear of such jubilation by others. This event serves to impose doubts upon the credibility of Arab leaders' mutterings about a Middle East peace.

More troubling than the reactions of the Arab world is the double standard continually applied by much of the world towards Arabs and

Well-balanced church organist

Music Review

Organ Recital by Kazuko Ishida (Church of the Redeemer, Jerusalem — Old City — June 3). Suite: Prelude and Fugue in G minor; Caramba!; From "Suite du Denier de Dieu"; Frank: Prelude, Fugue and Variation; Alain: Litanies; Deutscher: Fantasia; Bach: Three Choral Preludes; Fantasia and Fugue in G minor.

MRS. Kazuko Ishida, organist at the Church of the Redeemer in Jerusalem's Old City, has had there for the last half year a newly installed organ at her disposal. After training at the Eastman School of Music, Rochester N.Y., and elsewhere she was organist at the Tokyo Union Church before arriving in Israel last December.

The organ has bright, well-differentiated registers which were employed in carefully balanced mixtures and mostly very transparent texture; it seems only that the pedal is rather indistinct and not strong enough to carry its tone through against counterpointing or accompanying voices. The artist attended to all technical and rhythmic details with painstaking responsibility, and tempo were controlled but moved steadily at proper speed.

All the many notes were carefully enunciated by the player, but the flow suffered a little in the process. The most valuable contribution to the expansion of our knowledge was the inclusion of works by Jehan Alain. This French organist and composer was killed at the age of 29 in World War Two but left many scores to posterity. As there are three volumes of his organ works available, we hope that in future recitals Mrs. Kazuko Ishida will include more of his compositions.

The capacity audience and its grateful and generous applause should induce the artist to continue with recitals of this sort.

YORANAN BOEHM

Need to restore death penalty

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: It is hard to believe that Japanese of any ideology enjoy throwing away their lives for the pleasure of killing people from another continent of whom they know nothing, when they have many causes dear to them at their doorstep. After the Sabena incident, the terrorist leadership obviously had trouble finding Arab takers for their next action. It is not difficult to imagine how the Arab leadership persuaded the Japanese to undertake this action — by promising them that their people would be waiting outside the hall and, in the confusion, would help them escape and bring them back the way they did recently with one of their men serving a life sentence. They probably added that if something went wrong, the Japanese could surrender. As there is no death penalty in Israel, the Arab terrorists will be able to force the Israelis to free them eventually, just as they forced the English and the Swiss to free their men.

It is the folly of not restoring capital punishment in times of emergency that encourages persons to commit mass murder and the humanitarians are accessories to it.

Samurai and Kamikaze

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: In this darkest hour of Arab terror combined with the irresponsible rejection of blame by the French security authorities, it is consoling to see the surprising shaft of light which, side by side with the Kamikaze spirit, is imbued to the finer aspects of Japanese Samurai tradition. To all intents and purposes, no government can be held to blame for the actions of a small and illegal (unlike the Arab terror group in our neighbour states) group of its citizens. Yet, the response of the Japanese Ambassador in Israel and the even finer acceptance of all moral responsibility by the Japanese Government, including their willingness to accept the brunt of financial compensation, are truly bright lights and a shining example of outstanding government courage and moral pride.

I wonder where these same elements have gone to in the country which originated the concept of people's revolutions. Obviously, the spirit of de Gaulle lives on in Paris where we once had friends, whereas Japan has taken the full cycle since World War Two and has turned into an example of moral and national courage for all the western world.

Hitler's heirs

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: The killing of innocent people, including women and children, at Lod Airport shows that the Arab terrorists organizations are the true heirs to the legacy of Hitler and Eichmann. If this spirit prevails, mankind will destroy itself. Hitler also began against the Jews and the world did not realize that such a mentality does not limit its destructiveness to one nation only. It is only a question of time until these criminals attack other nations or individuals against whom they think they have some claims.

Airlines' obligation

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: I believe I express the astonishment of many Israelis that our citizens and Jews from all over the world travel by Air France, which is owned by a government unfriendly to us and doesn't even feel a moral obligation for the terrible murder for which they were greatly responsible. Air France was always sure that because of her pro-Arab politics, they did not need special vigilance — this should have been a warning to any traveling Israeli.

MIRIAM PUSHEAR

Stark reminder

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Sir — Lod, May 30, 1972 will be fixed in history as another stark reminder of man's capacity to sink to the depths of depravity. The irony of the constellation of events, peoples and places surrounding the Lod tragedy will not be lost on history. How ineffably sad that Japanese Kamikazes have cut down in-

Friendly Japanese

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: While condemning the outrageous act at Lod, no sane person will hold the Japanese people as a whole responsible for these foul acts or, for that matter, in similar cases, place the blame on any other whole nation for the crimes of some few misguided members of their people. The Jews will be the last to have learnt their tragic history for the unjustified application of such a principle.

Many Japanese, particularly young people and students, are visiting Israel since 1954 almost yearly in increasing numbers for periods up to 12 months under the auspices of the Japan kibbutz Association and similar schemes, and they have always displayed a true friendly attitude.

W. S. MATSDORF
Jerusalem, June 2.

Israel's duty

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Israel should stop begging foreign governments to aid in our defense and the protection of our own and foreign citizens. The responsibility lies with Israel and Israel alone. Lod should not become a death trap, and complete precautions should be maintained at all times. Israel borders are secure thanks to the I.D.F. Maybe it is the I.D.F. we should turn to now in order to solve this horror problem which should never be allowed to happen again.

Palestine voice Carnage on roads

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Only two days ago, a Jewish friend and I were saddened and angry about the hoodlums' attack on the Palestinian Arabs at the Theater Fair in Tel Aviv. We felt better protection should have been afforded them.

Today, I am asking my Palestinian Arab friends to speak out against the senseless slaughter at Lod Airport. When foreigners become willing to sacrifice their lives and the lives of so many innocent people, fighting a non-existent enemy, it is time for those in whose name others are dying to speak out loud and clear to stop this senseless slaughter.

DESTROY THE BASE

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: Just as birds of prey need a nest, so do the terrorist assassins require a land base, a centre for planning, recruiting and organizing. It is obvious that the only effective way of fighting them is to destroy their base. It is also obvious that any country which shelters them is responsible for their actions.

ISAAC HOROWITZ
Rehovot, May 31.

Carnage on roads

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post: It is difficult to dispute the claim of various government officials that if other airlines had followed Israel's lead in implementing tighter security precautions on their flights, then the latest tragedy and others might well have been avoided.

Unfortunately, the Government's claim of achieving success in air travel safety also exposes it to the same charge of criminal negligence of which it accuses other airlines when it comes to action being taken to combat the carnage on Israeli roads. While road fatalities do not seem to rate the same headlines as hijackings and airport terror attacks, the fact remains that some 55 people are killed every month on our roads. And the government agencies concerned do not seem to show even a fraction of the concern shown for improving air travel safety. The results of our campaigning for air travel safety demonstrate what can be done when the Government feels something is important enough.

THE JERUSALEM POST Junior

The week in Israel

Post-mortem on Lod

The week that has passed since the Lod massacre has been spent by Israel in a painful analysis of what Israel should do and to what extent this country could have prevented the tragedy. Lebanon expected Israel to take counter action at once and let its fears be known widely abroad.

The Knesset in an almost unanimous resolution declared that the Arab states harbouring and helping the terrorists would be held responsible for their deeds. Israel, the resolution said, would take action against them by virtue of its right to defend the State and its citizens.

All the airlines flying to Lod have promised at last to search the baggage of passengers going to Israel. Until now, Air France had refused, apparently believing that the terrorists would not involve the French line because of its friendly attitude towards the Arabs. This hope, like so many hopes placed in the terrorists, proved to be an illusion. Lebanese leaders denied that a Japanese suicide squad had ever been in Lebanon at all. The denials followed firm evidence that they had indeed been in Lebanon, arising from the interrogation of the Japanese terrorist captured in the Lod incident.

There was some criticism in the Knesset and the press of Israel's handling of Air France flights immediately prior to the tragedy. Some of this was probably due to being wise after the carnage. Both Defence Minister Dayan and Communications Minister Shimon Peres admitted that they had never dreamt of such a possibility as a Japanese suicide squad opening fire in the crowded arrivals hall of Lod Airport. Both explained that fighting terror is a question of action and response, new action and new responses.

General Dayan stressed that such "victories" as the Lod massacre, about which Arab leaders, except for Hussein, are so exultant, are very hollow; they have no military value at all.

SPECIAL PASSOVER FOR BRAZILIANS

By LEA BLOCH

(Grade 11) Nugim High School

My family is a member of the Brazilian Community. We were among twenty families that immigrated to Israel as a group eight years ago. This group tries to help other immigrants in their absorption. One of the traditional activities is to organize a second Passover Seder for new immigrants especially from Brazil.

This year it was arranged in Kiryat Sprinzak in a very big and beautiful hall. More than four thousand people took part in this Seder, including the Minister of Absorption, Mr. Nathan Peled, and all the "schlichim" from Israel who had helped us in Brazil, to get organized. There were students from Brazil who learn in Haifa, new immigrants with their families from Brazil and from Russia.

The preparations before the Seder were not easy. We had to decorate the hall very well. We had to be well trained in the artistic and cultural part. Community singing, dances, reading (from a modern "Haggadah" which was printed by the Kibbutz Artzi). Another part was the "materialistic" one: there was very tasty food: Gefilte Fish, Knedlach, and people ate a lot. I think that they enjoyed themselves very much. Not only they but also I was very satisfied at the success of this important event.

EILAT— A TRAGEDY

By DENA WITZTHUM (Grade 12) Nugim High School

DURING my vacation a friend and I went to Eilat. All the way I waited impatiently for the moment when I would see Eilat. When we arrived the disappointment shocked me and I thought that a crime had been committed here and no one had prevented it.

Eilat is built on the hills near the sea but the way it has been built makes you think that a madman planned it. Instead of building tiny beautiful houses in a special style, I saw quarters that looked like match boxes. The disharmonies between the elevation and the city reminds me of what Camus wrote in "The Plague."

HYDE PARK IS GREAT

by Micky Moses (Grade 11) Nugim High School

THERE is something wonderful about freedom of speech in England. When I visited London, two years ago, I visited Hyde Park. For the first time in my life I saw so many people from so many different countries. Anybody who wished could stand up and hold a speech about any subject. Nobody minded whether it was a political speech or about the sins of men. Everybody talked about everything, even about sex.

You could see there, little boys from China who sold the books of Mao. Some hippies talked about love and sex and some old men danced and sang about Jesus. You could hear the Fedayeen speaking against Israel.

Suddenly I saw the flag of Israel. I went there, and to my surprise I saw many people listening to an Israeli speaker. He was a great speaker. He talked about Israel and the audience was very interested. Some people from the Arab countries were present there. They began to make some nasty remarks about Israel and about the speaker, but the Israeli didn't fail to give the right answers.

This went on for some time; it was a heated discussion but as long as there was no physical violence, no one interfered. This visit left a deep impression on me. With my eyes I saw all the people of the world together, but with my ears I heard everybody speak.

Moshe Shamir: New winds blow in the world

One of Israel's leading writers is interviewed by Ronit Romano and Smadar Shoham (Grade 11) Herzliya High School

MOSHE SHAMIR

IT'S two o'clock in the afternoon and Ronit and I are sitting in Mr. Shamir's living room.

Question: Tell us, in brief, about yourself and the important events in your life.

Answer: I was born in Safad. I went to the Herzliya "Gymnasium." I was a member of the "Hashomer-Hatzair" Youth Movement and then a member of Kibbutz "Mishmar Ha'emek." I joined the Palmah and only afterwards became a writer. My books: "He Walked in the Fields," "By His Own Doing," "King of Flesh and Blood."

Q. At what age did you start writing, was it a special occasion which caused you to write?

A. There was no special occasion. While a student I was interested in writing. In the Hashomer Hatzair I started to write in their journal and became its editor. I began to write seriously in the kibbutz.

Q. Was writing a daily work or inspiration, an experience that penetrated your memory or a collection of sensations?

A. Usually I try to work continuously, which is typical of writers of prose, because it's a lot of work, unlike poetry. A literary creation is the fruit of imagination, resulting from experience, sensations, memories. Sometimes one writes about a true type and sometimes there are imagined types based on sensation.

Q. Did you have periods without creation? Are you writing a new book now?

A. There were times when I didn't write, times of silence, rest and recharging. I stayed abroad two years and rested. Now I am working on something new.

Q. Some of your books have been put on the stage, how did you get along with the directors and the players?

A. There was full cooperation with everybody.

Q. For whom do you write mainly? Youth, or average people?

A. For whoever wants to read. I have stories for children, "The Fifth Wheel," my regular books are intended for serious youth and adults. I don't write my books for a particular age; I can't criticize my books, I am too involved.

Q. The Writers' Association fights for literature, are you a member?

A. Yes, I am. One of the goals of the Association is to defend writers' rights; since we are a nation not yet living in one country we must support our writers.

Q. One of the Association's claims is that the youth do not read enough — do you agree?

A. I think they do read, but I don't really know. I am quite far from them. I have two grown daughters and a young son — they are the readers. It never happens that everybody reads; book-reading requires a standard of education. The truth is that the Hebrew book has less weight; before the creation of the State we had no way of expressing ourselves, therefore the appearance of Brenner's or Bialik's books were great events — meaning that you belonged to Zionism; today it is different. There is a substantial literature now, but youth do not take advantage of it. Libraries are not good either.

Q. Regarding the previous question, is today's youth worse than the youth of the Palmah or the youth of the previous generation?

A. Nonsense! Today's youth is good and had exactly as in the time of the Palmah. From far away it seems that they sacrificed themselves; this is true, but you shouldn't have any inferiority complex. In the youth movement there is some regression; in the past the movement was more important, today we have the Army. The Youth of today is wonderful, I have many meetings with soldiers, I sit with them in the outposts. I see my children and their friends and there is nothing to complain about.

Q. How do you define art?

A. I can't define art, I can try by negation. Art isn't only entertainment, there is a thin dividing line between art as entertainment and art as a spiritual value; art is the spirit of man. Art isn't like home, food or raising a family; art isn't a basic matter nor a luxury. Art gives men depth to life, and that is the advantage of men over animals.

Q. What is your opinion of modern art, is art on the way to bankruptcy?

A. No, it isn't. I like Picasso; Salvador Dalí is "kitch." I like pop music, the Beatles; the trouble is that there are imitations, and I am getting old.

Q. What is your opinion of modern storytelling, with underground characters, unlike your characters?

A. Today there is an escape from reality; the characters are unusual, unimportant; this might be characteristic of our times. This atmosphere of young literature is expressed in city and university circles. Today there is an interest in the philosophy of life as opposed to my generation who excelled in searching for reality. This is also a matter of the winds blowing in the world.

I WON'T FORGET MOTHER INDIA

By RIVKA BENJAMIN (Grade 9) Herzliya High School

I WAS born. I am quite sure of it. That is why I am here in school. But I don't know when I was born. Mother tells me that my birthdate is November 12, 1956 and I was named Rebecca. I am sorry that my parents did not even consult me about this important matter. But what's in a name, after all? I would be the same girl with any other name.

I don't remember anything about my childhood. I was sent to school when I was six years old. Oh! how awkward I felt then! All the pupils stared at me, and some put out their tongues at me, and a wicked girl pulled my hair, when our teacher was not in the class. Soon I made friends with a couple of girls who were kind to me. In India girls don't have boyfriends at school, and they didn't play with boys. So, I played hide-and-seek with my friends, and I was happy, and liked my school.

Our teacher was very clever but rather strict. She had vast knowledge, and I wondered how her little head could hold such vast knowledge. She sometimes told us interesting stories. We were fond of stories. How we laughed at her funny stories! She liked me, because I was a clever and obedient girl, and did my lessons well. Sometimes I came first in my class. Once I got first prize for my speech on "Good Manners." How proud my father was then, and patted my back! This encouraged me to study harder.

Our teacher sometimes took our class to visit interesting places in Bombay, which is a very big and beautiful city in India. I remember, when we visited Rani Bang (Queen's Garden) to see the zoo. We saw big bears, tigers, monkeys, deer, elephants there, and when we went to see the lion, he roared, and I was so afraid that I hid behind my teacher. Sometimes we were taken to see Prince of Wales Museum, Hanging Gardens, and Chowpatty. We liked the last place best, as it was on the sea-shore, and thousands of people — Hindus, Moslems, Parsees and Jews — came there for a walk. We built castles on the sand and watched ships dancing on the waves.

When we left India and emigrated to Israel, we were very sad indeed, and we cried bitterly. India is such a beautiful country, where our forefathers lived for 2,000 years, and we were never persecuted by any caste or creed, as Jews are in other countries. Will I ever forget Mother India, where I was born?

They can guess six or eight possible synonyms for each abstract verb or noun being introduced. Mr. Elvin provides instant translation into English, French, Spanish and Russian. There's no guesswork.

The "Encouraging" Method

The "direct method" encourages the student to speak freely at the beginning and intermediate levels — so one person at a time speaks and 20 listen — mostly to poor Hebrew which must be re-learned later. In our method at the intermediate level the student memorizes a normal situational Hebrew conversation for each unit. It is tested on it in both speech and writing, then spends his class time doing exercises and assignments — though not necessarily Hebrew. They don't have to speak to fall behind. They acquire 60-80 new words per unit and are doomed to failure if they don't regularly add 1,200 to 1,500 new words were allowed to accumulate. Try waiting until the

Our advanced level using "substantive" units brings the student up to 6000 words where he is able to understand a university lecture — and teach in Hebrew. Our tuition is higher than most government upanim, but far cheaper in the long run from the standpoint of time and money. We provide loans of up to two thirds the tuition cost to new immigrants in our intensive classes. Jewish Agency subsidies are also possible for certain individuals.

Reception hours are from 4.30 to 7.30 p.m. every day (except in Beersheba where we do not receive on Tuesdays. Marcel Janco 'The man with the iron look'

By SHAYA SHAPIRO
Jerusalem Post Reporter

IN nearly 60 years of artistic life, Marcel Janco has lost none of the bombshell qualities which made him an enthusiastic co-founder of the Dada movement in 1916. His retrospective exhibition which opened in the Tel Aviv Museum last week contains examples of his work over five decades. But the personality of the man with the iron look (as his erstwhile friend Tristan Tzara described him) is possibly even greater than his masterpieces.

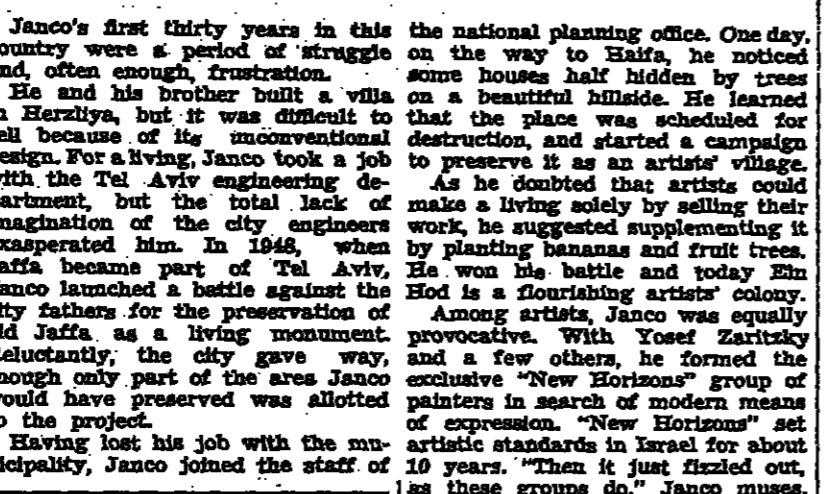

A native of Bucharest, where he began to study painting at the age of 15, Janco moved to Zurich in 1915 to learn a "profitable trade" — architecture. Zurich was a peaceful haven in war-torn Europe. Several students, mostly foreign and some of them Jews, resolved to manifest their horror of the war and desire for the predominance of art. Hugo Ball, the philosopher, expressed his hatred of the Kaiser in lyrics which he sang at the Cabaret Voltaire, in the old city of Zurich. Janco and his two brothers helped with decorations and an acrobatic show, while Tzara and the psychologist Richard Huelsenberg provided the inspiration.

"We decided that everything that had been done in art so far should be scrapped — everything was to begin from zero," Janco recalls, in explaining the origins of Dadaism. When the Swiss police, scared of involvement with the warring powers, closed down the Cafe Voltaire, the group opened an art gallery and held Dadaist meetings there. Jean Arp, coming from Paris, joined the group. (Not long before he died, Arp visited Janco in Ein Hod.)

When the war was over, Janco moved to Paris, where the Surrealists were beginning to forge a place for themselves. Janco was not happy with many of them. "They continued with their drooleries instead of trying to do serious art." He returned to Bucharest. For 20 years, Janco was at the hub of Rumanian artistic life. A prominent architect, he built houses and villas notable for the originality of their design; he co-founded an art revue "Contemporanul"; he founded artists' circles to exhibit new ideas. The Black Guard and World War II put an end to all this in his one fell swoop. In 1941 Janco and his family were happy to find a haven in Palestine.

Janco's first thirty years in this country were a period of struggle and, often enough, frustration. He and his brother built a villa in Herzliya, but it was difficult to sell because of its unconventional design. For a living, Janco took a job with the Tel Aviv engineering department, but the total lack of imagination of the city engineers exasperated him. In 1946, when Jaffa became part of Tel Aviv, Janco launched a battle against the city fathers for the preservation of old Jaffa as a living monument. Reluctantly, the city gave way, though only part of the area Janco would have preserved was allotted to the project.

Having lost his job with the municipality, Janco joined the staff of the national planning office. One day, on the way to Haifa, he noticed some houses half hidden by trees on a beautiful hillside. He learned that the place was scheduled for destruction, and started a campaign to preserve it as an artists' village.

As he doubted that artists could make a living solely by selling their work, he suggested supplementing it by planting bananas and fruit trees. He won his battle and today Ein Hod is a flourishing artists' colony. Among artists, Janco was equally provocative. With Yosef Zaritzky and a few others, he formed the exclusive "New Horizons" group of painters in search of modern means of expression. "New Horizons" set artistic standards in Israel for about 10 years. "Then it just fizzled out, as these groups do," Janco muses. "He did not start other groups, it was because he was too preoccupied with the affairs of Ein Hod, of which he was the first marketer."

In 1967, he was awarded the Israel Prize for Art. With the revival of world interest in Dadaism, Janco was sought after by historians and critics. He took part in the Dada jubilee exhibition in Paris and Zurich in 1968, and his work and life are discussed at length in all books about this and later art movements.

Janco looks back at his Dada years with unmitigated nostalgia. "We did some good work then. All the rest simply followed the road we carved. But," he adds soberly, "Dada was important primarily as a breakthrough. Paraphrasing Clemenceau, one could say that Dada led anywhere — provided one left it."

IL306M. BUDGET FOR 72/73 T.A. tax men criticized

By SARAH HONIG
Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The local City Council on Wednesday approved the IL306m. budget presented last week by Mayor Yehoshua Rabinowitz. The 19 coalition members voted for the budget while the 12 opposition city councillors opposed it.

Gabai opposition leader, Mr. Meir Savidor, charged that the city "while the inefficiency of the city tax collection department is costing tax payers millions every year. About 100 of the department's 450 employees are redundant and yet the municipality falls IL11m. in arrears in tax collection every year." He maintained that proportionally, the city spends even more than the government in collecting revenue.

He also attacked the municipal administration for favouring "gratuitous prestige projects, such as building luxury hotels, shopping centres and museums instead of tackling the dire slum problem in town. Some 40,000 Tel Avivians live in IL900 flats not for habitation, and there are 20 slum neighbourhoods in which crime and violence fester."

Savidor also pointed to the growing number of pedlars around town and charged that the municipal inspection corps is falling apart. "Those inspectors who ought to root out violations of the law, in effect, become transgressors themselves — whether actively or through their silence," he said.

Internal airline promises pilots will smile

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — A new internal air service which promises its passengers "a smile from the pilot" — Israel United Airlines — went into operation last week.

The new firm was formed by a merger of three small flying services: Avrom, Nativ and Yaaf. According to General Manager Arye Grosbord, United will provide air-taxi, charter and special purpose flights and will link Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, Eilat, Sharm el-Sheikh, Santa Katerina and Haifa. The firm is already running an air-taxi service connecting Eilat with Tel Aviv and Jerusalem, and will add Haifa-Jerusalem and Haifa-Tel Aviv runs next week.

The company has eight full-time and two part-time pilots, one of whom is a trained tourist guide. Mr. Grosbord said they were now training the rest as guides, and that "the hardest part is teaching them how to smile."

United has a fleet of 12 planes, 9 of them twin-engine machines, with a total seating capacity of 116. Invested capital is over IL2m.

Capital's stores may strike

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Jerusalem merchants are weighing the possibility of a tax strike, the local Merchants Association revealed on Wednesday. Such drastic action will be inevitable if the Municipality goes ahead with Mayor Koflek's reported plan to add a "tourism tax" to the existing levies, said Mr. Avraham Birnbaum, General Secretary of the Association, who added that municipal taxes on businesses in Jerusalem are already the highest in the country.

Last week the organization warned that its members would increase prices if the proposed, onerous rate increase for commercial premises would exceed the 25 per cent hike set for residences. Three days later the Municipal Council voted to increase the commercial onerous by 40 per cent.

STUDENTS SERVING prison sentences in the West Bank — some 100 of them — will be permitted to sit for their matriculation examinations in prison, according to a decision communicated from the Military Governor's office. The exams are taking place this week.

Peres proposes Israel-W. Bank federation

Jerusalem Post Reporter

REHOVOT. — The Ministry of Transport Mr. Shimon Peres, proposed on Wednesday that a federation should be formed between Israel and the West Bank. Speaking at the Weizmann Institute before members of the Israel Academic Committee on the Middle East, Mr. Peres said, "each federal state will have its own parliament and language and will decide on such issues as education, tourism, health and police while the federal parliament will decide on foreign affairs, defence and treasury."

The federation should be based on two principles, the minister said: All citizens would be equal; and each nation would have the right to be different. "I don't deny that there will be plenty of problems but without federation the problems remain. Our objective should be to find a way to transform the problematic relationship into a better state of affairs. We are already on the way to such an understanding," he said.

The minister concluded by saying that since the situation cannot remain undecided forever it would be a democratic act for the majority to decide, because the minority cannot take such a decision. (This was the second time the minister publicly proposed such a federation.)

SCHOLARSHIPS AND PRIZES in the sum of IL500,000, 150 per cent more than last year, have been awarded to 700 of the University of the Negev's 3,000 students. (Last year 350 students benefited.) The Association of Moroccan Immigrants has granted 80 additional scholarships totalling IL40,000, and 17 additional scholarships of IL600 to IL1,000 each were awarded in the memories of Shalom and Usher Berger, Segen-Mishne Ronen Gavish and Dr. Ze'ev Glid.

KEEPING POSTED

HARRY Webb, described as the most versatile of Anglo-Welsh poets, has written a poem about Herod, called "Homecoming." We take this piece of information from the "Aberdare and Mountain-Ash Leader," a small Welsh local newspaper. Mr. Webb read the poem on the BBC Welsh Radio last March. When he is not writing poems, Mr. Webb is the Librarian at Mountain Ash. We received the clipping from a man with the good Welsh name of Bill Williams, but from Kyrayr Ono. In due course, no doubt, the poem itself will turn up.

PERHAPS the Jerusalem planners would be interested to know that the Planning Commission of the ancient and beautiful Italian city of Florence has rejected a plan for the construction of a Hilton International Hotel on a hill dominating the city. The commission ruled that the $6.4-million project would spoil the view.

ON the other hand the Jerusalem Museum at the Cape Canaveral Bible Conference has put up a full size copy of the scale model of the Temple, the original of which stands in the garden of the Holyland Hotel in Jerusalem. It was apparently seen by 10 million people at the 1967 World's Fair in Montreal, and was the second most popular exhibit there. (We have not been able to find out which was the most popular.)

According to the picture we have received, a good deal of decorative detail has been added, which may not be as carefully researched as our more austere version, but seems rather nice, as well as large numbers of little figures going about their appointed Biblical ways.

'Mr. Rugby' to coach here

By JACK LEON
Jerusalem Post Sports Reporter
TEL AVIV. —

DR. Danie Craven, president of the South African Rugby Board and one of the game's leading coaches, has accepted an invitation from the Israel Rugby Football Union to conduct a short pre-season training course here in October. Dr. Craven paid a three-day visit to Israel in March when he promised the full assistance of the South African Board in developing rugby football here.

In his letter of acceptance, South Africa's "Mr. Rugby" wrote that he has already collected more than 100 jerseys and many balls for Israel's seven rugby teams. I.R.F.U. heads Clive Gurwitz and Maurice Epstein told The Jerusalem Post.

The Union executive's decision to accept help from South Africa was opposed by a small minority of local rugby players — mainly from the Jerusalem club — because of the policy of racial discrimination in sport practised in the Republic.

The I.R.F.U. plans its first competition against foreign opposition in the 1972-73 season. Most likely visitors here are a team of British servicemen from Cyprus. Contact has also been established with the rugby authorities of Rumania, Italy and Holland regarding possible tours to Israel in the next two years.

A FAMILIAR FACE ON ISRAELI ROADS

Within an unprecedentedly short period, the first front with its four interlocking seats became the identifying mark of a most coveted car. You too, must have noticed how quickly the number of these cars has increased on the roads of Israel.

If you are not yet aware of the reason for this overwhelming success, it is well worth your while to pay a call to one of the below listed AUDI NSU showrooms, where you will be given a detailed explanation and after a test drive you too, will be convinced that this car is superior to others.

More must be done to make life easier for immigrants

By ASHER WALLFISHER Jerusalem Post Knesset Reporter Absorption Minister Nathan Peled said yesterday that further steps had to be taken so that new immigrants could arrange all their affairs involving the various Government departments under a single roof.

Replying in the Knesset yesterday to the annual debate on the work of his Ministry, Mr. Peled said that so far very little had been done to implement the decision taken (when the Ministry was set up) to have officials of every Government department at Absorption Ministry offices, to save the immigrant running from place to place. At present, the Labour Ministry has officials in every district absorption office and at every absorption centre, but the other Government departments do not.

Without the minimal privileges given nowadays to the immigrants, the Minister said, they would not be successfully absorbed and without hope of successful absorption, the immigrants would never arrive in the first place.

The Knesset yesterday also voted on the budgets of the Agriculture, Health and Welfare Ministries on the second and third readings.

Finance Committee chairman Israel Kugman, who piloted the budgets through the Knesset, said that the new village set up in the administrative areas since the Six Day War contain a total population of 3,000 adults and 800 children. He said that a total sum of IL300m. had been invested in settlement work in the areas since 1967.

Shapiro: Court building must go up as planned, despite freeze

Justice Minister Y.S. Shapiro told the Knesset Finance Committee yesterday that it would be an error to postpone or cut back plans to build the new Supreme Court building on Mount Scopus, because of the freeze on public building.

The Committee was told that, despite the appointment of new judges, the number of files pending was still growing faster than the number of judges.

Mr. Shapiro noted earlier (on Wednesday), when the Committee began discussing the Justice Ministry budget, that outstanding lawyers are not as willing as they used to be to serve on the bench. Hence new candidates of the right calibre are hard to find.

Mr. Shapiro said that he favoured a salary increase for lawyers in the Government-employed lawyers' category. (Government-employed lawyers were among the first to protest the high fees paid to the private counsel who appeared before the Witkon Commission on the Netivt-Nett affair.)

Jacqueline Smith-Smolon, 24, whose body was found near Ma'agan-Michael Tuesday. (I.P.P.A.)

No clues in death of U.K. girl

HEADERS. — The police said yesterday they still did not know what had killed Jacqueline Smith-Smolon, the English volunteer whose body was found on Tuesday near Kibbutz Ma'agan Michael, three weeks after she disappeared from the kibbutz.

A preliminary examination of the body, at the Abu Kabir pathology institute, turned up no signs of violence. A saw for a fractured jaw, which could have resulted from a fall, but pathologists said the body's advanced state of decay made it difficult to determine the cause of death. They will continue tests for several more days.

Sources in the Hadera Police Department say that Miss Smith's disappearance is being thoroughly investigated, and that they are treating the affair as a case of murder.

Gaza youths on trial for family murder

By HERBERT BEN-ADI Jerusalem Post Reporter

GAZA. — Six youths, ranging in age from 14 to 21, were charged in the local military court on Wednesday with the murder of eight people — including an entire family — in the Gaza Strip. The defendants are: Mohamed Abdel Salam Mohamed Sharif, 18; Sadek Abdel Salam Mohamed Alaman, 18; Mahab Tamrah Yusuf el-Mahlawi, 17; Fais Kamal Ali Balawi, 14; All Mohamed Abdelhadi Shihan, 21; and Talal Raji Abdelkader Tahah, 21. Abu Sharif is from Rafah; the others are all from Gaza.

Abu Sharif, together with Alaman, el-Mahlawi and Balawi, are charged with the murder of Abu Lamin, 53, his wife Adiya, 40, and their four children — the sons and a daughter — ranging in age from nine to 22. According to Abu Sharif, the family was "sentenced to death" by the Palestine Liberation Forces, of which he was a member for "treason and failure to live according to the Koran." He was so informed on the day of the murder by the Forces' deputy commander, Sheikh Salah Kadis (who was later killed in a clash with Israel forces) and on whose body the "protocols of the Abu Lamin" murder sentence were found.

The defendants, together with Kadis, tied the six members of the Abu Lamin family, took them to a secluded spot on the beach, and following the example of Kadis, who killed Abu Lamin with a mattock and a knife — killed and buried the victims in the sand.

Abu-Sharif was also charged with the murder of Halli Namer Tabib Elus in Gaza, in June, 1971; and, together with defendant Shihan and Tahah, he is also charged with the murder of Sahab Ibrahim Ahmed Khalaf, 21, in Gaza last July.

All six defendants pleaded not guilty, although in November the first four listed took police to the beach where they showed the graves dug for the Abu Lamin family. The trial is being presided over by Seren Yoram Galin.

Gaza Post Office rededicated

Jerusalem Post Reporter

GAZA. — An enlarged telephone exchange and a restored post office were dedicated here yesterday by Deputy Communications Minister Jaber Muadi.

The exchange, built at a cost of IL500,000, adds 700 phones to Gaza's previous 2,000 and brings the total number of telephones in the Strip up to 3,500. The installation also contains a radio-telephone link-up for the towns of Gaza, Deir el-Balah, Khan Yunis, Rafah and El-Arish.

The Gaza Post Office was wrecked in February, 1971, by a terrorist bomb which injured 61 people. The office, near Medina Square, handles 500,000 letters per year.

Guatemalan President tours J'lem, Bethlehem

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Guatemalan President General Carlos Arana, on a private visit to Israel, spent yesterday in Jerusalem and its environs. In the evening he was guest of honour at a dinner tendered by President Zalman Shazar — the first "state banquet" in the new President's Residence. Prime Minister Golda Meir was there.

President Arana spent the morning in the Old City, visiting the Church of the Holy Sepulchre and the Western Wall and Temple Mount. Before lunch he paid a courtesy call on President Shazar, who recalled Israel's lasting gratitude for Guatemala's role in pushing the Partition Plan through the U.N. in 1947 — and Guatemala's unwavering support for Israel in international forums ever since. (Last week, Guatemala was one of five states — the others were the U.S., Israel, Holland and Zaire — who voted against a resolution at ECOSOC condemning Israel for contravening the Human Rights Charter in the occupied territories.)

In the afternoon Mr. Arana and his party visited Yd Vashem. President Arana also called on Knesset Speaker Israel Yeshayahu, who expressed Israel's appreciation of the Guatemalan Parliament's special session to mark its condemnation of the Saboteur bill, and its sympathy for the victims.

Then the Presidential cavalcade of cars headed for Bethlehem, where General Arana received the Freedom of the City. He is the third President of Guatemala through the colony of former Bethlehemites — among them Mayor Freil's brother, a doctor — who live in the Central American state.

Burglar shot, other escapes in thwarted robbery

RA'ANANA. — 25-year-old burglar was shot and wounded early yesterday morning, and another escaped when they were surprised by a police patrol in the act of robbing the Co-op supermarket at Rehov Eliezer Yoffe here.

"Titim" learns that a Kfar Saba police patrol had cruised past the food store and noticed something amiss. The two burglars started to flee, with the police in pursuit. The sergeant managed to catch up with one of the men and fired a warning shot when he heard the burglar pull the bolt on his weapon. When the man fired again, hitting his man in the thigh. The second man escaped.

Near the scene police found burglars' tools and an abandoned car, which the burglars had stolen earlier in the day in Herzliya. On Wednesday another suspected robber was shot and wounded in a police chase in Tel Aviv. Neither of two injured men has been identified.

Reacting to this, the Health Ministry spokesman said yesterday that the average stay of mothers in hospitals after giving birth was 4.02 days. He admitted that in a few cases mothers were released earlier, but that this was at their own request and only if medically justified.

Jailed for aiding terrorist — their own brother

RAMLE. — Two brothers from the village of Tibbin in Western Galilee were sentenced to eight months' imprisonment each for abetting a third brother and two other saboteurs who had infiltrated from Lebanon in the summer of 1970.

The two brothers, Haled and Mustafa Ismail Ahmed, aged 36 and 26 respectively, also received 28-month suspended sentences. Their wives, Zina and Fatma, who were also convicted on the same charge, were given 18-month suspended sentences.

The saboteurs had spent eight days in the country, during which time they received food and money from the accused. They were housed by a village elder, whose trial continues.

The court said it was passing relatively light sentences in cognizance of the dilemma in which the accused found themselves — having been torn between family loyalties and loyalty to the State.

Milk delivery dispute over

By AARON SITTNER Jerusalem Post Reporter

Ample supplies of home-delivered milk for the Sabbath are expected in Jerusalem today, following settlement of the work dispute at the city's Tuva Dairies.

The work stoppage, which began last Sunday, came to an end following a meeting yesterday between representatives of the company management, the Jerusalem Labour Council, and members of the plant's works committee. The dispute involved 15 workers in the bottle-filling department who charged Tuva had altered their work norms in the course of its phasing-out programme of bottled milk in favour of milk packed in plastic bags. As a result, they said, their working hours would be cut back and their income decreased.

At yesterday's meeting, Tuva officials said the company would try not to cut the workers' pay as a result of the transition from bottles to bags. They also agreed to a proposal that a special committee be set up to review the entire problem and to recommend a solution. The committee will report within 10 days.

FALSE ALARM AT AIRPORT

LOD AIRPORT. — Another false alarm occurred here early yesterday morning, when the captain of an incoming Swissair plane radioed that there was a "suspicious-looking" passenger aboard.

Ambulances and fire engines were alerted and Border Police surrounded the aircraft when it landed, shortly after midnight. A careful search among the passengers and their luggage revealed nothing, and the passengers were allowed to proceed through customs and passport control.

Flieman ousts I.L.P. from Haifa Coalition

By YA'ACOV FRIEDLER Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — Mayor Moshe Flieman yesterday informed the two-man Independent Liberal faction on the Town Council that he was expelling them from the Municipal Coalition, following their refusal to take part in Wednesday's budget debate. He announced that their failure to attend the debate and vote for the budget (and the rise in municipal rates) was a clear violation of the coalition agreement. He will seek his own Labour Party's approval of the week-up of the coalition early next week.

The Independent Liberals have been members of the Municipal Coalition virtually without interruption for 20 years. Faction head Dr. G. Kamnaka is a member of the City Executive.

The expulsion of the Independent Liberals from the coalition will reduce it to the 14 Alignment and three religious councillors, with six Gahal men and two Independent Liberals in the opposition. (The Council numbers 26.)

Wednesday's meeting of the Council approved the IL140m, 1972-73 budget, as well as a 25-to-40 per cent rise in municipal rates. After a short discussion of the budget, which is 21.3 per cent higher than last year's, and the rate increases were approved "unanimously" by the 14 Alignment and three religious councillors.

The six opposition Gahal councillors walked out at the start of the debate and the two Independent Liberal coalition councillors refused to take part at all. Both factions protested that in the opinion of the City Executive had not given the councillors a chance to discuss the budget and rate rises thoroughly, and had only supplied them with the documentation a few days before. This had made it impossible to hold a "serious debate." The Gahal councilors also warned that the rate hikes together with the expected electricity and bus tariff rises would undermine the national wage policy. Haifa residents will now have to pay 25 per cent higher rates on small flats of up to 90 square metres and 40 per cent more on larger flats. Families whose income does not exceed IL684 monthly will be exempt from the rise. City Hall expects to collect an extra IL4m. from this increase. The tax on businesses was raised by 40 per cent, to yield an estimated IL44m.

First victim of porno raids gets 7 days

NAZARETH. — An Upper Nazareth bookseller netted in last month's nationwide pornography raids was sentenced yesterday to a week in jail and a IL1,000 fine for possessing and selling salacious literature.

The man, 58-year-old Shmuel Eisenberg, was the first to be tried as a result of the May 22 raids. Sentence was handed down by Chief Magistrate Elias Kteily, who also ordered that the material seized in Eisenberg's shop be destroyed.

Hospitals said discharging mothers too soon

The Director of the National Insurance Institute, Dr. Israel Katz, criticized the widespread practice of hospitals in discharging mothers within two days after giving birth.

Speaking to members of the Coordinating Committee for Economic Organizations at their Tel Aviv club on Tuesday, Dr. Katz said he intends to propose to his Institute's Council that hospitals be paid fees based on the number of days of hospital stay. At present, he said, all hospitals receive a uniform fee for maternity cases computed on the basis of a stay of 4 1/2 days.

Dr. Katz explained his annoyance with the hospitals by stating that medical opinion holds that the third and fourth days after birth are most critical, and present danger of infection. Mothers of large families suffer especially from the shortened stay, he said.

LAPKIN NAMED HAIFA U. RECTOR

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — Haifa University's Senate last night elected Professor David T. Lapkin, an economist, as Rector for the next two years. He will take office at the start of the 1972/73 academic year, replacing Prof. Benjamin Akzin, who is retiring after serving three years in the office.

WALL STREET SLOW TRADING IN MARKET

NEW YORK. — After being ahead earlier, the market closed lower in slow trading.

Brokers relate early buying to selective interest in issues depressed by the market in recent sessions. Some brokers mention the spurt in gold bullion prices on the free market abroad as an unsettling market factor. They say that the price rise raises fears of new world monetary problems, despite an Administration denial that the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. recently made a secret agreement on the price of gold — and analysts' assurances that the gold gains aren't signalling a new crisis.

Market still climbing as turnover booms

Jerusalem Post Financial Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The stock market climbed even higher yesterday, with turnover booming. Over the day IL5.2m. worth of shares were traded, (IL2m. of them in the variables).

Analysts expressed the opinion that after the sharp price falls in May, the recent recovery was enough to pull investors back to the share market. However, they say, still larger sums are waiting, and these amounts will increase when the Government redeems the Defence Loan on June 20.

Centre of interest was, again, American-Israel Paper Mills. Wednesday night it closed in New York 15 1/2, up 3/4. In Tel Aviv the stock opened very firm and climbed 70 points to 555, with an initial demand of 250,000. However, during the rise, many investors left; finally only 84,000 was traded. About the same quantity was traded in the variables, and the stock closed for the week-end at 572, over the week-end price of 560 (over the week-end price of the stock more than doubled).

Another firm issue again was Cold Storage. The stock opened at 250, "buyers only," and closed at 241, up 23. However, there was still no news available. Lighterage and Supply opened at 146 and closed at 155, climbing 15 points. Electra ILI shares were also firm; they gained 13 points and closed at 230.

IL15m. announced its 1971-72 yearly dividend of 6 per cent cash and 10 per cent bonus shares. Investors were not disappointed, and the stock rose five points to 263, after a high in the variables of 264. Delek shares opened unchanged in the opening (at 169), but rose in the variables to 173.

Investment companies were firm and all gained a few points, mainly in the variables. Elern Investment advanced to 198. Israel-English Bank also added two points in the variables to 208.

Land and development shares all closed at higher levels. Africa IL10 closed 320, up 2; I.L.D.C. gained 4 1/2 points to 237; the new Property and Building shares, which were issued at 200, were up closed yesterday at 210; Ramco preferred opened at 99 1/2, up 1/2, and closed at 102; Wolfson IL10, initially unchanged, later gained 2 1/2 points and closed at 114 1/2.

The investment dollar fell another agora yesterday, to IL2.25, with 60,000 turnover.

Bonds were mixed yesterday. Turnover was about IL3m.

Almogi denies housing shortage 'past peak'

Jerusalem Post Staff

TEL AVIV. — A claim that the housing shortage in this country had passed its peak was contradicted by Labour Minister Yosef Almogi at a symposium held here yesterday under the auspices of the Engineers and Architects Association.

The claim was made by Mr. Amos Rubin of the Bank of Israel, who predicted that a decline in building starts may be imminent. The demand for housing was exaggerated by speculators counting on further rises in flat prices, he said. In the first quarter of 1972, he pointed out, classified ads offering second-hand flats increased by 50 per cent as compared to the previous year's corresponding period.

This assessment was strongly contradicted by Mr. Almogi, who pointed out that construction is no longer subject to periodic ups and downs, but has become a steady industry, warranting long-term investment and fixed employment terms. Should even speculative demand for flats subside, there was a huge potential demand for better housing conditions for a large sector of the population, Mr. Almogi argued.

The Labour Minister announced that measured output norms would be introduced for building workers, allowing them to benefit from lower income tax rates, which would greatly increase work productivity and building output.

Mr. Almogi said he opposed the "import" of foreign building workers, except in special cases. Under consideration was an application for importing 200 trained workers from Europe, who would work as a team to introduce a new building method.

Mr. Almogi said the Cabinet had recently discussed his proposal to set aside land throughout the country for the building of some 50,000 flats for low-income families during the coming decade. According to his plan, the flats would be raffled off to applicants as they became available.

He noted that "the time has come" for the setting up of a special Ministry of Building, which would be responsible for the planning and execution of the nation's land policy.

Mr. Aharon Goldstein, M.K. said one major reason for the high cost of housing was that the Urban Renewal Act, promulgated eight years ago, had not been carried out. That law provides for the release of urban land for residential construction, by the building of more flats currently occupied by shanties.

The cost of land accounts for up to 60 per cent of the price of flats, while it should not account for more than about 10 per cent, Mr. Goldstein added.

Mr. David Tanne, chairman of the Tefahot Mortgage Bank and former Director-General of the Housing Ministry, defended the prevailing policy of tenant ownership as opposed to rental housing. In any case, he argued, rental housing should not be subsidized by providing cheap land. Instead, the subsidy should be given to the needy tenant, he said.

The Histadrut Executive yesterday called on the Government to examine its land policy with regard to residential building so as to eliminate the "blight of land speculation." The Executive also called on the Government to place part of the State land reserves at the disposal of housing programmes for immigrants, young couples and large families.

As for the Histadrut-sponsored Shikun Ovdim building firm, the Executive decided to forbid the company to allocate resources for the building of luxury flats.

Meyer Lansky (right) and counsel Yoram Alroi in the Supreme Court yesterday.

Court fight resumes to 'clear' Lansky

By DAVID LANDAU
Jerusalem Post Reporter
Meyer Lansky's lawyer spent another five hours at the High Court of Justice yesterday, seeking to persuade the five justices that his client does not have "a criminal past likely to endanger the public weal."

Mr. Lansky is fighting against the refusal of the Minister of Interior to grant him immigrant status. His case opened in the High Court of Justice 10 weeks ago, but had to be adjourned because first one justice then another went abroad.

For two days in March State Attorney Gavriel Bach sought to demonstrate that the Minister's decision — which holds in effect that Mr. Lansky is part of the U.S. underworld — was based on a welter of information which though not incontrovertible in every part, added up to a damning case against him.

Mr. Lansky's counsel, Yoram Alroi of Tel Aviv, embarked on a marathon effort to discredit or discount the evidence adduced by the State, and dispute the contention that his client's past was criminal and dangerous. He continued his presentation yesterday.

The Court President himself, Justice Shimon Agron, has already said that he would not pay heed to the many paperbacks written about Mr. Lansky, which Mr. Bach had sought to use in evidence. So attorney Alroi concentrated on the more weighty evidence against his client — the U.S. Senate committee reports and the investigations of various Federal agencies in the course of the last two decades.

One piece of oft-adduced "hard" evidence was the failure of a certain Sheriff Clark of Browne County, in Florida, to crack down on gambling clubs in which Mr. Lansky allegedly had an interest. (The sheriff actually provided police armoured cars to convey the club takers to the bank.) The State Attorney deduced from this that Mr. Lansky had bribed the law-enforcement officer; but, said Mr. Alroi, it was more plausible that the sheriff was acting to please his electors.

Mr. Alroi stressed that the F.B.I. and other U.S. authorities had been trying desperately for years to "pin" a serious charge on Mr. Lansky and have him imprisoned. The reason they had failed was not because Mr. Lansky had succeeded in perverting the whole course of U.S. justice — but because there really was "nothing on him." After his three-month sentence for gambling in 1952, he had left the gambling business in the U.S. and

Chief Rabbinate elections Internal N.R.P. fight over High Court plea

By ASHER WALLFISH
Jerusalem Post Knesset Reporter
Interior Minister Yosef Burg is duelling with his junior National Religious Party colleagues in the columns of the daily press, because they sponsored a partisan appeal to the High Court in connection with the Chief Rabbinate Elections Preparatory Committee.

Dr. Burg told The Post that he and Welfare Minister Hazani had asked the N.R.P. Knesset faction to clarify why two N.R.P. M.K.s sponsored the High Court move without even mentioning the matter first in the faction caucus. The two M.K.s, Messrs. Zevulun Hammer and Yehuda Ben-Meir who represent the N.R.P. Young Guard, got their colleague Micha Yonin to file the plea — to which the Cabinet will reply on Monday, unless it appoints its representatives to the Preparatory Committee before then. The Cabinet has to explain to the High Court why it has not yet appointed its two representatives to the Preparatory Committee, so that the Chief Rabbinate Elections can be held on time.

Dr. Burg told The Post that the basics of "democracy and political hygiene" should have prevented a situation whereby Cabinet ministers first learn of their faction colleagues' political initiatives from press reports.

BEFORE ELECTIONS
Dr. Burg also criticized Messrs. Hammer and Ben-Meir (in a statement to the "Ha'arets" daily yesterday), accusing them of exploiting national issues for the sake of internal N.R.P. politics, before the party elections in autumn.

The two M.K.s told Knesset correspondents in reply to this charge that Dr. Burg apparently preferred to waive his principles for the sake of keeping his faction in the Coalition and himself in a Cabinet seat. The two M.K.s said the Alignment's political obscurity would probably lead to a further postponement of the Chief Rabbinate elections, thus impairing the image of the Chief Rabbinate. They added that the appeal to the High Court was intended only to ensure that the elections would be held fairly, and not under pressure.

Questioned about reports that he was pondering a move to amend the "who's a Jew" amendment to the Law of Return, Dr. Burg told The Post that he was in fact preparing a Cabinet initiative to amend the Law of Return, about immigrants' material privileges on the same level as Jewish immigrants.

Dr. Burg said he was preparing a draft amendment for Cabinet consideration, whereby non-Jewish immigrants with one Jewish grandparent would no longer be able to claim immigrants' material privileges on the same level as Jewish immigrants.

Another leading rabbinical figure widely respected in National Religious circles and beyond, Rabbi Shlomo Yosef Zevin, the editor of the "Talmudic Encyclopaedia," also wrote to Rabbi Unterman yesterday, encouraging him to stand again.

Industry: Higher wages will end price control
By YITZHAK OKED
Jerusalem Post Reporter
TEL AVIV. — Industry warned the Government and the Histadrut yesterday that if the country's workers get more benefits than were agreed to in February's framework agreement it will mean the collapse of price control.

Mr. Mark Mosevics, president of the Manufacturers Association, told the general meeting of the Association: "We will not go on like this — in a vice-grip of wage demands on one side and price control on the other. Anyone who agrees to extra wage demands at this point must know that he will no longer be able to ask us to sell our produce at the same prices as before. The Government and the Histadrut have to explain this to the workers."

Mr. Haim Bar-Lev, Minister of Commerce and Industry, who also spoke at the meeting, warned the industrialists that they would be making a grave mistake if they did not adhere to the price control agreement which is in effect until the end of this year. The Minister said, "I think that controls on prices are quite liberal."

Mr. Bar-Lev pointed out that in the long run Israel could not build an industry on low salaries. The lowest wage-earners are in industry, he pointed out.

Mr. Mosevics stressed the need for an early tax reform. He criticized the Finance Minister's proposal to peg the added value tax at only five per cent, as demanded by the Histadrut.

Mr. Mosevics proposed that the Government revise its export incentive policy in the wake of the stiff competition that Israeli exporters are experiencing in Europe. He also came out in favour of recruiting manpower from countries such as Cyprus, Turkey and Greece, in order to overcome the acute manpower shortage in industry today.

Ultra-Orthodox demonstrators march in protest against the opening of a sex boutique in Jerusalem. In the centre of the first row, wearing sackcloth like his followers, is Rabbi Amram Blau, leader of the Natorai Karta in Mea Shearim.

Clash with police Zealots march in sacks against Eros

Jerusalem Post Staff
Sackcloth-clad ultra-Orthodox Jerusalemites scuffled briefly with police yesterday evening while protesting the opening of a sex boutique, Eros, in the Capital.
The group of about 200 members of the Natorai Karta, under their leader Rabbi Amram Blau, had assembled in front of the building housing the Eros boutique in Rehov Yonah, downtown Jerusalem, at 6 p.m. for a public mincha prayer — as they have every evening this week. Most confined their protest to prayer, though a few tried to push their way into the building and had to be kept out by police stationed within.

After concluding their prayers with resounding cries of "Gewalt!" the demonstrators began moving in mournful procession towards Jaffa Road. (They are mourning the "defilement of the Holy City.") A group of five policemen blocked their way at the city park in Jaffa Road, and asked the column to turn off into the Russian Compound.

A shouting match ensued, following which some of the protestors began striking the policemen. After Inspector Prag, commander of the Jerusalem control unit, had been kicked, the demonstrators scattered, reassembling at the entrance to the Russian Compound. There the Jerusalem area patrol chief, Superintendent Ya'acov Noldman, managed to persuade Rabbi Blau to lead his followers peacefully back to their homes. The column then turned off towards Mea Shearim, singing a "hasidic" song based on the verse "Man proposes, God disposes."

The Natorai Karta Beit Din (religious court) has threatened the owner of Eros with excommunication unless he appears before them.

Lod victims at Sheba Hospital down to 31
Jerusalem Post Reporter
TEL AVIV. — Four of the Lod Airport massacre victims will leave Sheba Hospital for a few hours this morning for a special guided tour of the Judean Hills.

This was reported to The Jerusalem Post yesterday by Sheba Hospital's deputy director, Dr. David Kreisler, who said that the tour was arranged for those passengers who can travel, so that they would have memories of a hospital ward when they think of Israel.

The number of Lod patients still at Sheba Hospital is now down to 31. Two more patients were discharged yesterday, Mrs. Shoshana Morgenstern of Haifa and Dorit Vitkin of Germany. Two more patients may be sent home today, and about five will be flown back to Puerto Rico on Sunday. Four or five more Israeli victims will also be sent home that day.

The condition of most patients is steadily improving. Only two of the them are considered still to be in serious condition, although their lives are not in danger.

Cyclist, 13, killed by truck
PETAH TIKVA. — A 13-year-old local boy, Ovedia Hakri, was killed yesterday when a truck hit him; he was riding his bicycle at the time in Rehov Yonah, North Jerusalem.

The truck driver struck the boy while turning his truck into a side street. The driver has been released on bond.

Kibbutznik killed in grain chute
BEERSHEBA. — A missing member of Kibbutz Klauzin was found dead yesterday in the kibbutz granary. His apparent victim of a work accident the day before.

The victim, 20-year-old Rami Katan, had been in charge of filling the granary. Kibbutz members noticed he was missing on Wednesday night and called the Orlim Police, who sent a squad out after an all-night search of the area. The police and an army unit hurried up, reaching Kibbutz members went to the granary and began emptying its compartments. Katan's body was found in one of them.

The police suspect Katan was sucked into the compartment while trying to clear a stoppage in the passage through which the grain was pouring. A Labour Ministry inspector was called to the scene to investigate what caused the accident. (Itim) mission's decision regarding the size of the lawyers' fees was final.

Mr. Avraham Kalir, a member of the Witkon Commission, told The Jerusalem Post last night that he had written a letter to the Minister of Justice on May 25 expressing his view that the lawyers' fees were too high.
Mr. Kalir explained that the Commission had decided on the fees after the Director-General of the Ministry of Justice, Mr. Zvi Terlo, outlined the criteria for deciding what the fees should be. "I decided to write a letter to the Minister, requesting him to look into the criteria governing the fees and to bring it before the public — which he did, in a speech at the Knesset."
